
Polarization of M supergiants: detectability and properties

Eric Josselin^{*†1}

¹LUPM - Université Montpellier 2 – Université Montpellier II - Sciences et Techniques du Languedoc –
France

Abstract

Magnetic fields of a few Gauss have been detected in a few M supergiants, in apparent contradiction with predictions of a few 100 G. Furthermore, these stars exhibit relatively strong signal in linear polarization. I will discuss the properties inferred from these observations, as well as the best strategy for forthcoming observations in the context of the BRITE survey.

^{*}Speaker

[†]Corresponding author: eric.josselin@univ-montp2.fr